Fox Island

Fox Island is one of the great communities that make up Pierce County, Washington.

Fox Island is tucked away safely amongst the islands and inlets of the southern reaches of the Puget Sound. Recreational activities include swimming, fishing, sailing, waterskiing and more. Because the island is linked to the mainland by a bridge, it's a great place to live for someone craving the tranquility of Island life yet not willing to deal with taking a ferry to get on and off the Island.

Fox Island is situated just 6 miles from Gig Harbor and 17 miles from Tacoma, where many residents work and do their shopping.
