As a town, Carnation sprouts up from the broad Snoqualmie River Valley. The Old-fashioned storefronts on Tolt Avenue are ringed by forested hills and snowy peaks of the Cascades that seemingly protect it against the outside. The town, named for a dairy and started by settlers who came to farm is being rediscovered as a bedroom town, a quiet locale with low crime. Within the Snoqualmie Valley you will find a golf course, the nearby ski resorts of Snoqualmie and Stevens Passes and horseback riding trails. Home to popular Remlinger Farms for fresh fruit and produce and hosting events throughout the year.
